

WHY WEE KITTY KIDNAPPED BABY.

Six-year-old Catharine Dolan
Tells How She Came to Steal Child.

FOUND IT AT A STORE.

China Marie Was in Hospital and Here Was a Real Live
Dollie.

By Nikola Greeley-Smith.

Catharine Dolan, of No. 486 Graham avenue, Brooklyn, is six years old, blond, blue-eyed and sweet. Her doll, Marie, is a third as old, but she has been a trouble. Which, after all, should surprise no one. For the lives of dollies, in a family boasting of three little boys, as the Dolans do, is brief and full of vicissitudes.

Last year Marie's long golden curls came off as the result of rather rough handling by "Buster" Dolan, but Catharine, her mamma, learned how to keep the curls on with cap strings tied under her porcelain skin. And everything went well till last Friday, when Marie's great blue eyes closed forever, as the result of a broken spring in the back of her head.

Then there was desolation in the house of Dolan. Catharine wept for her sightless offspring, and at intervals her wailing was reinforced by Grace Dolan, five; James Dolan, four; John Dolan, three, and Buster Dolan, two. The wailing did not cease till Catharine's papa announced that he would take Marie to the hospital and bring her back as good as new.

Found a Real Live Doll.

This made everything all right for the younger Dolans. Marie would be gone a few days and would return cured. But the mother heart of Kitty Dolan was at one with Rachel wailing for her lost children, and would not be comforted—not even when her own mother gave her ten cents to buy candy.

True, Catharine took the money, and wandered weeping along Graham avenue into Driggs, and thence to the corner of Manhattan and Meserois avenues, where there was a department store with a candy counter that Catharine thought gave the largest half pound anywhere. Her soul was dark with mourning for the lost Marie.

Then, right in the vestibule of the store, calmly sleeping in a beautiful carriage under a tilted white parasol, she saw it, the most beautiful doll in the world!

Its eyes were shut. There was the dearest little brown furze on its head. It had the most natural rosy cheeks you ever saw. It had regular little fat creases around its wrist like a real baby, and a little red mouth that was open and stirred faintly now and then.

Catharine Dolan, silent, enraptured, gazed, and the last Marie was forgotten. She reached a little finger out and touched its cheek, and its eyes, big and brown and not a bit scared, opened.

It was not a doll at all, but a real live baby, far and away ahead of even the great big dollies Catharine had seen and sighed for in the Fulton street windows last Christmas time! Where had it come from? Whose was it?

There was nobody looking. Some people said babies were brought by angels; others that a great big bird left them. Catharine's mamma, when she had asked her about it, said they were found in ash barrels. It is ash barrels, why not in the vestibule of a department store? And she had found it and it was obviously hers. The logic was flawless, fatal.

Wheeled "Dollie" Home.

The next moment, Catharine Dolan, aged six, was trundling the five-month-old baby of Mrs. Frank Collins, of No. 125 Vernon avenue, Long Island City, who had just stepped in the store down the street.

The blotter of the thirty-third Precinct Police Station, at Manhattan and Greenpoint avenues, takes the story up right here. At 6 P. M. Mrs. Frank Collins reported the loss of a new velvet-lined perambulator containing the five-month-old baby. The description followed. This was responsible for turning the attention of forty policemen on post and twenty-four reserves to Catharine Dolan's new doll. Then a later entry:

Baby returned by Catharine Dolan, aged six, of No. 486 Graham avenue. Yesterday Catharine, a demure little maid with blond hair carefully done up in pigtails, surrounded by the other little Dolans, a streetcar and silent after much persuasion and a present of chewing gum, told me all about it, solemnly, in monosyllables, her forefinger in her mouth.

Kitty's Confession.

"I missed my doll. Her name is Marie. She's in the hospital. And I saw the baby in the store. It was asleep, but I knew it could open and shut its eyes, and Marie can't, and it was nice and warm. I always take Marie into bed with me, but she's china, and she never seems to get warm a bit. I thought the baby would be like Marie. So I took it."

And then Catharine lapsed into silence, from which she could not be roused.

"She won't tell any of us any more," said Catharine's mother. "The first thing I knew about it one of the neighbors came up last evening and said Kitty was sitting down on the stoop singing 'Tammany' to a young baby. I thought it must belong to a family next door, and forgot it. A little while later Kitty came up for her supper. It seems she had wheeled the baby around to our landlord's house and left it in the doorway."

SIX-YEAR-OLD WHO STOLE A BABY,

"In the middle of supper a little boy rushed in and shouted 'Oh, Kitty, your baby's crying!' Kitty got up, as white as a sheet, and flew down the stairs. I followed her and when I saw it was a strange child that nobody knew I made her tell me where she got it. Then, of course, we took it to the station-house. And the poor woman it belonged to was there, crying. And that's all—the crazy child."

Then Kitty's mother looked at Kitty as if she didn't know whether to laugh or cry. But Kitty continued to chew gum in silence and desolation.

FIRE TENDER KILLS MAN.

Pedestrian Knocked Down at City Hall Park.

John Mooney, seventy-eight years old, who, on Friday, was struck by a fire engine tender in Chambers street, near City Hall Park, died to-day in the Hudson Street hospital.

The old man was passing the street and apparently did not hear the tender. He was dragged about seventy-five feet.

The police are seeking his relatives.

BOY KILLED STEALING RIDE.

Fell Between Freight Cars and Lost Both Legs.

Frederick H. Schmidt, eleven years old, of No. 240 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street, died early to-day in the J. Hood Wright Hospital as a result of injuries received yesterday afternoon while stealing a ride on a freight train on the Central Hudson road at One Hundred and Eighth street and the Hudson River. Schmidt fell and both limbs were severed.

DIAMONDS CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON KING OF ALL DISEASES

To Contagious Blood Poison rightfully belongs the name King of all Diseases. It is the most powerful of all human ailments—corrupting every part of the body and wrecking and ruining the lives of those unfortunate enough to contract it. When the first sign appears in the form of an insignificant sore or ulcer, few persons realize that the deadly virus has entered the blood; but so potent is the poison that one drop will vitiate and pollute the purest and healthiest blood, and in a short time the degrading and horrible symptoms begin to appear. The mouth and throat ulcerate, the glands in the neck and groins swell, the hair and eye-brows fall out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and in the latter stages of the disease the poison even works down and destroys the bones. No other disease is so highly contagious, and many have contracted it and suffered its awful consequences through a friendly hand-shake, handling the clothing of one afflicted with it, or drinking from the same vessel. S. S. S., The King of Blood Purifiers, is the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. It goes down into the circulation and forces out every particle of the virus. It is nature's antidote for this peculiar poison, and cures the disease in all its stages, and cures it permanently. S. S. S. does not hide or cover up any of the poison to break out in future years, but so completely eradicates it from the blood that no signs are ever seen again. S. S. S. is purely vegetable, we offer $1.00 for proof that it contains a particle of mineral of any kind. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice you desire will be furnished by our physicians without charge.
